Construction on new Headquarters in Maryville, Tennessee underway

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., (November 8, 2021) – Tennessee Gov. Bill Lee, Department of Economic and Community Development Commissioner Bob Rolfe and Smith & Wesson President and Chief Executive Officer Mark Smith held a groundbreaking ceremony for Smith & Wesson’s new 600,000 square foot facility at Partnership Park North in Maryville, Tennessee. The event was attended by several hundred local officials, current employees, and guests.

"I have no doubt whatsoever that our culture and our company will continue to thrive here," said Mark Smith. "Not just because our culture will be welcomed, but because it will be strengthened by being here."

"Great American companies like Smith & Wesson, who had the option to relocate anywhere in the nation, chose the best state in America and that's Tennessee," said Governor Bill Lee.

The company will invest $125 million dollars in the new facility which will house its headquarters as well as distribution, plastic injection molding, and assembly operations. Smith & Wesson has begun construction on the 240-acre campus which is slated to be open in 2023.
